

Reclaiming Materials Destined for Disposal

Kelly Caldwell, Volunteer Coordinator
ReClaimIt! (A Cracked Pots Project)

Cracked Pots is a volunteer driven non-profit devoted to waste reduction in our community.

Creative reuse - reclaiming and re-imaging - is at the heart of all we do.

GLEAN

- Artists are given the opportunity to glean materials from the transfer station for the program duration.
- Each artist is required to create a minimum of 8 pieces available for sale at the exhibition in the fall.
- Ninety-five percent of each piece must be created from materials gleaned from the transfer station.
- Each artist is paid a $2,000 stipend upon successful completion of the program.
- Each artist receives 80% commission from the sale of their art at the exhibition.

Join Us At GLEAN!

Annual Reuse/Art Maker Show

McMenamins Edgefield • Troutdale, OR
crackedpots.org

- Come see over 100 professional reuse artists and makers at the longest running reuse arts festival in Cascadia!
- Averaging 3,000 to 6,000 attendees over two days
- Reuse art contest open to the public with prizes awarded for theme creativity
- Endorsed by City of Portland's Bureau of Sustainable Development

I consider joining the Cracked Pots reuse show an extremely good reason to come back to Portland after my amazing visit last year.
