What's changing

The 1983 Recycling Opportunity Act was built on the premise that everyone in Oregon should be given the opportunity to recycle. While many cities around the state have adopted programs to provide recycling for apartment dwellers and businesses, some Oregonians still do not have easy access to recycling services at home or at work.

Beginning in July 2022, residents and businesses that share garbage collection service will have new opportunities to recycle under Oregon law.

What cities are affected?

Cities with more than 4,000 people and cities within the Metro Service District will be affected by the new statute—more than 80 cities across the state.

About the meeting

DEQ staff will provide an overview of these planned changes followed by the opportunity to ask questions and share feedback. DEQ is committed to working with the community, and these conversations will help the State during this planning phase before this new law goes into effect in 2022.
